AN INDIAN "IMPI."

COLONEL THORNBURG'S COM. MAND IN A PERILOUS PLACE.

The Colonel and Several Enlisted men Killed-Intrenching to repel a Threatened Attack.

MILK RIVER, Col., Sept. 29 .-- Thornburg's command was attacked in a canon at noon to-day one mile south from here on our march to the agency and retreated in good order to the wagon train, where we are now intrenching ourselves. At 4.30 P. M. Thornburg was killed instantly during the retreat. Captain Payne was wounded in two places slightly. Lieutenant Paddock and Captain Grimes were also painfully wounded. Ten enlisted men and wagon master McKinstry were killed and twenty-five men wounded.

The command is now very well sheltered, but now and then are heard guns of new hostiles who have just arrived Our mules and horses are getting it all around. The red devils fired the grass all around us to burn us out.

9. P. M.—We still hold our position. Every man is busy digging trenches and hauling out the dead animals for the defense to-morrow. We expect to be attacked at daylight. Onr courier, Joe Rankin, has volunteered to carry dispatches to Rawlings. Mr. Gordon's freight outfit of Indian supplies near us, has been burned, also company wagons of company F. Fif.h cavalry. About three-fourths of our horses and mules have been killed. Should reinforcements reach us in five days we can hold out very well with ammunition. CHICAGO, Oct, 1.—Dispatches to General Sheridan corroborate the foregoing: Thornburg's command consisted of three companies of cavalry. The In-dians who were several hundred in number, were of the Ute tribe and said to be well armed and very brave. Over five hundred soldiers are ordered to rendezvous at Rawlings and will reinforce the imperilled party as soon as

The Tammany Expulsion.

The action of this body yesterday in its meeting at the St. James Hotel was in accordance with previous expecta-tion. Nobody doubted that the seats of the Tammany members of the committee would be declared vacant. The action by which they were excommunicated was in strict pursuance of the intentions of the Democratic State Convention. There is no question that the Tammany members of the State Committee were regularly appointed to act as members if they had not bolted the leading nomination of the party. They were appointed before the bolt took place, the Convention not desiring to take official notice of an unexpected threat. One of the Tammany mem-bers, Mr Mitchell, who did not participate in the bolt and declares his fealty to the whole ticket, is allowed to retain his place; but the others were formally ruled out. After the bolt the State Convention authorized the State Committee to fill vacancies. The vacancies were declared in pursuance of that authority, but they have not been filled and probably will not be until after the reorganization of the city Democrats under the auspices of the State Comit-tee, which has prudentially refrained from recognizing the Irving Hall fac-

The necessity for their former expulsion grows out of the question which is pending in the Police Board. Tammany sets up a claim that it is entitled to the Democratic Inspectors of Elec-tion, and the hitch in the appointment of inspectors grows out of this claim. The law requires that they shall be appointed with reference to party dif-ferences "on State issues." The leading State issue is whether Robinson or Cornell shall be chosen Governor. Tammany does not conceal its intention to defeat Robinson and elect Cornell. Tammany Inspectors would act in the interest of the Republican party, and the whole four thousand inspectors might as well be given avowedly to the Republicans as to be divided equally between the supporters of Kelly and the supporters of Cornell, since every man who votes for Kelly aims to defeat Robinson by giving half a vote to Cornell.

IN MARBLE AND BRONZE.

THE LIVES OF GREAT MEN COM-MEMORATED AT THE CAPITAL.

Washington Post, 30th. The erection of a monument to the late General George H. Thomas by the Army of the Cumberland, in this city, early in November, will prove a valuable addition to the art attractions of Washington. Until the march of improvement a few years ago transformed Washington from a slough of despond into one of the most beautiful cities in the country, there was no inducement to increase the number of its statues. Now, however, private enterprise and Government appropriations have ornamented our sightly squares and parks with costly bronze and marble memorials. This is but right. Of all the cities of the United States, the Capital should be the one to preserve the memory of brave and patriotic men. The first statue erected in this city was the colossal marble monument of Washington, now standing in the east park of the Capitol. This was ordered in 1832 by Congress for the rotunda of the Capitol, and was designed by Horatio Greenough, of Massachusetts. It was made in Florence, Italy, and occupied eight years in its completion. It weighs twelve tons, and its total cost, including the sculpton's work freight reding the sculptor's work, freight, removal and attendant expenses, was $44,000. Of this amount $5,000 was paid for moving the statue from the Washington navy yard to the rotunda, about a mile. It was found, however, to be so entirely out of proportion to the in-terior of the Capitol that it was removed to the east park, where it now stands in solitary grandeur. There are many stories of interest connected with this work. A United States frigate which was sent to bring it to this country was found to be entirely too small, and a found to be entirely too small, and a merchant vessel was then chartered and altered to carry the unwieldy mass. The main door of the Capitol had to be cut away to admit it, and a pier of masonry was erected beneath the pavement of the rotunda to support it. It bears the famous legend, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." It also her the follows: his countrymen." It also has the following inscription: "This statue is for a great example of liberty, nor without liberty would this example endure." The next menument erected was the bronze one of General Andrew Jack-son, in Lafayette square, by Clark Mills, which was unveiled on the 8th of January, 1853, Stephen A. Douglass delivering the oration. Five years pre-vious to this date the Jackson Monument Association, composed of admirers of the general, collected about $12,000 for the purpose of procuring this testimonial. Congress, in addition, appropriated a number of brass guns and mortars for its construction, besides voting the money for the marble pedestal. By a further appropriation of $20,000 in 1853 Congress bought the statue and made it the property of the United States. Its total cost was $50,000. Shortly after the erection of this figure Congress ordered the erection of a monument to Washington, costing $50,000. It was placed in the circle at the intersection of Twenty-third street and Pennsylvania and New Hampshire avenues, where it has become a land-mark. Congress donated the metal used in its construction, and Clark Mills was the sculptor.

Scott square, at the intersection of Massachusetts and Rhode Island avenues and Seventeeth street, takes its name from the equestrian statue of General Winfield Scott, which was erected in 1874, seven years after it was ordered by Congress. The metal used in its casting was cannon, trophies of the General's valor in Mexico, given by Congress. It weighs 12,000 pounds, and cost $20,000. H. K. Brown was the scultor, and Robert Wood & Co., of Philadelphia, the founders. The platform alone is 26 feet long, 13 feet wide and 2 feet thick, and weighs 120 tons. General Scott has also another bronze statue at the Soldiers' Home, which was designed by Launt Thompson, and cost $18,000. It was erected in 1874 by the Home as a testimonial to the man who founded the institution. In Rawlins square, on New York avenue northwest, stands a heroic bronze statue of General John A. Rawlins. This was ordered by Congress in 1872, and erected two years later. It was executed by J. Bailly, of Pennsylvania. It cost $10,000, is eight teet high and weighs 14,000 pounds.

The Lincoln statute in the park o that name, on East Capitol street, was built by funds contributed by the negroes declared free by the emancipation proclamation, under the the lead of James Y. Yeatman, of St. Louis, the amount subscribed being $17,000. Thomas Ball designed the monument, and Miller, of Munich, executed the casting. It is twelve feet high and weighs 3,000 pounds. It was unveiled on April 14, 1876, the anniversary of Lincoln's assassination.

The bronze equestrian state of Gen. McPherson stands in the square of that name, on Vermont avenue, between and K and Fifteenth streets. This monument was erected by the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, and was unveiled October 18, 1876, General John A. Logan being the orator. Congress appropriated the cannon for its construction, and its cost was $23,500. It is fourteen feet high, weighs 7,000 pounds, and was designed by Louis T. Robisso.

an Ohio sculptor. The pedestal cost $25,000. General Nathaniel Greene, of revolutionary fame, has been commemorated in a statue erected upon Stanton square, Capitol Hill, at the junction of Massachusetts and Maryland avenues. It was ordered by Congress in 1876, and placed in position a year or two later. The commission was for $50,000, which included the pedestal, the latter being furnished by the artist.

The marble statue of Lincoln in front of the City hall is the work of Lot Flannery. Its cost was defrayed by patri-otic citizens. Flannery was a self-taught sculptor, who combined energy and enthusiasm with a slight modicum of genius. Among the proposed statues, other than that of General Thomas, is one yet to be erected to Admiral Farragut, in Farragut square, on Connecticut avenue, between I and K and Seventeenth streets. The monument is to be of colossal height, of bronze, for which Congress appropriated $20,000 in April, 1872. Vinnie Ream, the sculptor, has completed the plaster cast and will soon mould it in brouze.

A VICTORY FOR THE PUBLIC.

Express Companies Not Allowed to Shirk Risks on Special Contracts.

Washington Post, 30th. Justice James delivered an elaborate opinion yesterday in the court in gen eral term deciding the case of M. W Gut & Company, against the Adams Express Company. The suit, which was argued on Thursday and Friday of was argued on Thursday and Friday of last week, was to recover $719.35, the value of three packages of jeweiry, etc., which the plaintiffs delivered to the defendants to send to certain destinations outside the city. These were destroyed in an accident at Benning's station, and the defendants plead a "special contract" contained in the receipt given for the goods, by which they were absolved from liability for over $50 on any packages with under over $50 on any packages with unde-clared values. A verdict for the amount claimed was returned in the Circuit Court, and an appeal taken on excep-tions to Chief Justice Cartter's charge to the jury. In making up his opinion, affirming the judgment below, Judge James referred to Lockwood's case reported in 17th Wallace, Supreme Court reports, page 357, where it was held that a common carrier cannot stipulate for exemption from responsibility for the negligence of himself or servants. It was held in the present case that the principle of law which, for considerations of public welfare, forbids a com-mon carrier to bargain in particular cases for complete exemption from responsibility for a violation of his duties, orbids him to impair his obligations to the community by bargaining for an exemption from a considerable part of that responsibility. The principle of the rule laid down is that any agreement thick the rule laid down is the constant of the rule laid down is the constant of the rule laid down is the constant of the rule laid. ment which operates to interfere with the public right to care, and good faith on the part of common carriers, is an agreement against public policy, and is therefore void; and as an agreement that his negligence shall be cheap must operate in this way it necessarily falls within that principle. As to the duty of a shipper to advise the carrier that the actual was greater than the apparent value of the article shipped, it was held that his o nission to give such information does not affect his rights, un-less it justifies the carrier in adopting a course of conduct by which the loss occurred. A carrier who is allowed to suppose that an article may be handled in a particular manner is not responsible for so handling it, and the shipper has to submit to the natural effect of his own omission. This case was not, however, before the court, as it was not to be imagined that Galt's omission tempted the company to wreck and

Wilmington Star, 20th. The biggest lie we have met with in regard to the condition of affairs is to be found in the Philadelphia Press of Friday last. It is an account of the "rough experience of a Pennsylvanian in North Carolina." One J. Otto Thilon, who, according to his account, was in the employ of Colonel Thomas M. Holt, at Haw River, represents himself as the victim of great persecutions. He says he has been a Democrat, but he became so thoroughly disgusted with the ignorance and ostracism of North Carolinians that henceforth he is a Stalwart. As a specimen lie we give one extract, which shows J. Otto to be a most unconscionable slanderer and falsifier, as two thousand Republicans in Wilmington can bear testimony. Hear this champion liar: "His description of the condition of affairs in North Carolina is perfectly astounding. He says that he traveled the State over and found only four Re-publicans who had the courage to express their political conviction, and says that at every polling place the Democratic bulldozers displayed revolvers and used them freely on those who manifested any disposition to vote any ticket other than the Democratic. The whole thing was a surprise to him, as when he had been up North he had always attributed the stories of "outrages" in the South as being the campaign thunder of Republican politicians desirous of firing the Northern heart, but he found during the stay in North Carolina that the Republican politicians here do not know one-half #### of what is going on in the South."

Gold mining in Moore county is being carried on with considerable suc-cess. The old and well known Cagle mine, which has been leased by that family for years has been sold to P. C. Near here is also the Burns & Alford mine, a deposit of immense proportions which, while not as rich as others, is worked at a handsome profit. Across the creek from this is the Houston mine, that pow the vein or deposit has been struck, has paid better than any mine in the county, the yield some week, with a 10 stamp mill, being $700 to $800 worth of gold.

There are several other mines that have changed hands lately, but operations have not yet been commenced on them.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRERS.

BURNING OF THE WILMINGTON COTTON COMPRESS.

Fifteen Hundred Bales of Cotton and a Costly Compress Burned-Loss $150,000.

Wilmington Star, 1st. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning he alarm of fire was given, and an investigation quickly located the fire at the Wilmington Compress. The origin of the conflagration is unknown. The flames are said first to have been seen ssuing from a large wooden shed atached to the northern brick warehouse, on the water side, and soon the entire shed was in flames. With lightning rapidity they extended north to the building containing the Taylor press. engine, etc., and it speedily succumbed The fire department got to work be-end of the brick ware house, it will probably be prevented from spreading Owing to the lateness of the hour and the excitement incident to the scene, we could gather but little information as could gather but little information as to the amount of cotton burned. It is estimated that there were at least fifteen hundred bales destroyed. The compress burned was a Taylor press, which we believe cost $60,000 about a year ago. It had been working splendidly since the commencement of the season, and while its loss is serious the company's other press which appeared

FIRE ON THE SOUND. A two-story dwelling house on Mid-dle Sound, at what is known as the Newkirk place, the property of Mr. James Sprunt, of this city, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning about 1 o'clock. It was unoccupied at the time, and the fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. The house was built directly after the late war by Mr. Thomas Colville, and cost in the neighborhood of $3,000. It was insured for $500 in the Georgia Home, represented by Mr. Norwood

LATE STATE NOTES.

Wilmington Star.

We learn that one of our young sportsmen landed at Market dock yes-erday morning and started to pull his canoe up on dry land, having laid his fowling piece upon one of the seats, the muzzle pointing toward the head of the weapon to discharge, the load luckily taking effect inside the little craft instead of in the body of the young man, who considered that he made an exceedingly narrow escape. #### column. Cheap Hack Fare.

For many years New Yorkers have been trying to secure as chea hire as they have in London and Paris, but hacking still seems to be a luxury with them, which only the rich can indulge in. Why hack at all? Hall's Balsam will positively cure all hacking coughs and colds.

In another column will be found a small portion of a statement made by a person named Thilon (who, of course, is a Democrat) in an interview with a representative of the Philadelphia Press. The next thing to find out is. Did such a person roam about North Carolina any length of time and meet with such extraordinary treatment? or is the announcement merely the result of the modern system of interviewing? Perhaps Mr. Thilon's estimate of the number of Republicans he met with is owing to color blindness.

English losses through the recent bad season for crops are already being calculated in the home and continental papers. The immediate weight of the misfortune falls upon the farmers. An estimate puts the loss on the corn crop alone at $125,000,000, and $140,000,000 if beans, peas and rye are added. Potatoes show a loss of $75,000,000, hops of $7,250,000 and hay of $75,000,000. Here is a total loss of little less than $300,000,-000. It is further said that England will have to import at least 16,000,000 quarters of wheat, against $14,600,000 quarters last year. If these figures can in any way be relied on-and there is too much reason to fear they can-there is no reason for further inquiry as to how it comes about that the manufacturers are fairly alarmed at the prospects of the home trade.

In declining the Greenback nomination for lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts, Mr. Wendell Phillips says: I do not refuse the use of my name from any lack of interest in the greenback movement. I can serve it more efficiently by remaining outside of party lines, where my whole life has been passed. The greenback movemovement is one of the four great causes that I most seek to serve. Woman's suffrage, prohibition of liquor selling, protection of the negro, and a just, safe currency, are those four causes. I consider them about equalty important and vital to the national welfare, and I hail the dawn, which I think I see, of the day that will bring them great gain and strength, if not complete success.

Mr. Phillips further declares that the Democratic party is dead, that the Re publican party ought to be, and that President Hayes is a fraud. We agree with him with the exception of the first proposition.

In remarking the sympathetic action in industrial economy the San Francisco Commercial Herald justly says:

An essential feature of each and every industrial movement is that, no matter which industry first feels the impetus of revived business, the impulse soon moves across all the rest. We need not look for the reason. When hard times begin, brought about by causes which we will not now stop to analyze, men prepare to weather the storm. They do this by curtailing their expenses, beginning, of course, on the least essential matters. But, when they have cut off their expenditures for lux-uries, the people who produced these luxuries, finding their profits lessened. must, in turn, lessen their own expen-ditures, which in turn cripples some other industry, and so the narrowing movement goes on, until the very necessaries of life suffer, though last, and in a lesser degree than the rest. In a revival of business the matter works in an inverse order. The most essential products and occupations first feel the new impulse, the reaction widens, and each quickened industry helps another to revive. It is like the lighting of signal fires from height to height, kindled in swift succession along the horizon It is sign and proof of the essential unity

A NEW LABOR SCHEME.

The Press dispatches state that a private circular has been issued at St. Louis by the "Trade Assembly" and sent to all the assemblies of the United States and British America, setting forth a project for a general strike of all the trades, the time to be determined by the Trade Assemblies, and for taking unit d action for the adoption and enforcement of the eight hour law. The Trade Assembly also proposes to organize unions of all the trades not now organized, and to appoint an agitation committee to carry out the purposes of the assemblies.

It appears strange that every "dead beat" that figures under the guise of a "labor reformer" should be able to sway masses of intelligent workingmen in the manner indicated above, but the fact that he does still remains. Threefourths of the "strikes" that have occurred during the last twenty years never originated with the workingmen; they were merely the outcome of dissensions and fancied wrongs fomented by these loving friends of the laborers, scoundrels too lazy to work, too cowardly to commit an open robbery, but who labor under the idea that they of right must exist and that the world owes them a living.

Prior to the war "strikes" were almost unheard of; yet the relative rates of the price of labor and cost of living are not materially changed at the present day. Then unskilled labor was easily obtained at from 62½ cents to 75 cents a day, and skilled labor rated for the ordinary trades at from $1 to $1.0 a day. Now the common laborer gets from 75 cents to $1.50 a day, and the skilled workman from $1.50 to $3 a day. In 1860 the cost of living, making the most liberal allowance, was about onethird less than at present. The above statement only applies to the Northern and Western States-a rair comparison cannot be presented as to the Southern States.

During the rebellion, when greenbacks were literally measured by the peck, the wages of the employee went up, and so did the cost of living. Unions were formed, and for a time they controlled the manufacturing interests (the "capitalists" as the "labor reformer" would put it) to an unprecedented degree. Advances in the schedule rates of union prices were being constantly forced on the employers until one fine day in 1869 the last straw broke the camel's back-the employers refused to accede to the demands and the employees were left, at the bidding of the unions, without work. Compromises were suggested, and the result was in nearly every case that the men went to work at a slightly reduced rate, or went to other places where they were forced to other places where they were forced to labor for still lower rates. And thus they struggled on till the crash of scarce and money still scarcer; men with their families were on the verge of starvation. And still these "labor reformers" prospered; they were being supported by the unions-sucking the neart blood of the laborer. There were some unions in different parts of the country, to be sure, that were managed by men of sense-men that possessed understanding enough to see that an employer could not pay more for his work than he was receiving, but these were few and far between. During all these weary years labor has been seeking for itself a fair valuation. It has not found it in many cases, and yet steadily it is progressing toward the goal. It will reach it by a law of nature in due time. Capital and labor must adjust themselves to each other; their interests are inseparable. But the condition of the laboring masses will not be improved nor their nterests advanced under the guidance of such men as Kearney, Siney and Troup. Men cannot expect ten hours' wages for eight hours' work, and yet this is the battle cry of these demagogues.

In the spring of 1867 the late Hon. Henry Wilson, afterward Vice-President of the United States, was serenaded at Washington by the workingmen of the District, and in his address of thanks-and he a strong friend and advocate of the labor interests -he told them while speaking of the eight hour law that they must not expect the Government to grant them the full pay for one-fifth less work, and they went away satisfied. And yet these "labor reformers" profess to understand political economy far better than the old statesman. A careful review of the commencement and ending of "strikes" for the last ten years will prove instructive to those most interested-the laboring classes.

The other grievances can easily be disposed of. Child labor is regulated by statute in most States, and should be in all. The "truck" system for the last twenty years has been rightly considered an outrage, and should be swept away. In the early days of the country it was a necessity, but is so no longer.

HIDE ROUND.

More or less fault seems to be found on the score that the NEWS, which we are trying to make, as its name imports, a newspaper, publishes news. Well, we can stand any amount of grumbling from outsiders so long as it satisfies our subscribers. When they complain and withdraw their patronage it will be time enough for us to change our course-and not till then. News, as we understand its varied nature, is not confined to any particular party or sect. but furnishes details of the workings and affairs of each and all as far as they are obtainable and are of interest to the constituency of the journal publishing the matter.

Journalism has undergone a marked change within the last twenty years, The old-time features are fast disappearing throughout the country. Enterprising journalists pay more attertion to the publication of news matter than formerly, and when commenting on any subject they furnish the context at the same time. This is eminently proper. It gives the reader an opportunity to judge whether or no the reasoning of the reviewer as well as the ssertion of the author is correct; if a matter of general news exclusively, whether or no it should be rejected on the decision of one man-for the infallibility of an editor will average about the same as that of any other intelligent, we.l-read man. A carping critic may satisfy himself even though he does not the rest of mankind, and when he sets himself up as Sir Oracle if his pretensions are not sustained by the facts he goes to the wall.

So far as political news is concerned, it does not alter the result in the case that when Maine goes Republican it is nevertheless so even if a Democratic journal declines publishing the factthe fact still remains. And if some Republican (who, by the way, might engage in better business, even if it does not pay quite as well) chooses to furnish a Republican Northern journal with a ridiculous account of a very dim possible "split" in the Democratic ranks of this State, why, it does not make it so; and every Republican journal that circulates w'thin the confire; of the State will copy it, very much to the disadvantage of the party in question. And when the statement's made public through such sources it provokes inquiry: "Why don't our party journals say something about this matter? There must be something wrong." And inquiries are made, and when the statements circulate by word of mouth they become as fixed facts in the minds of many, no matter lov distorted the shape. And when so established all the explanations that can be made in a month fail to remove the first

There is only one thing to do when a statement of like nature is made-take the bull by the horns and exhibit him openly; half the terror is removed at once. It is only a hide-bound partisan that declines to let in the light of day on political matters that are taking place around him, even if they are distasteful to his political soul.

Besides, these things are matters of news-subjects that our readers like to read-and we aim to satisfy our readers, by publishing legitimate news matter. This is our bre d and better, and we cannot afford to publish a p litical paper for the fun of the thing. Others have tried it and made an ignominious failure. And it ill becomes one who has no fixed standing in either political party to go one hundred and seventy miles out of town to prate about "breeding party dissensions"

"The Okolona Ass."

Rochester Morning Herald (Ind.). The regular Democratic papers of the South have no patience with the wild editor of the Okolona States, whose extraordinary utterances find such favor in Republican journals. The New Orleans Democrat speaks of him in this

"The 'Okolona Ass' got as far as Freeport the other day, where he was advertised to deliver his speech on Sunny Southland.' He happened to glance into the hall before beginning they struggled on till the crash of 1873. Don't sept 27-10t will probably give zest to the abuse he will now heap on the people of the North and West."

The O. A's lecture tour North has been a flat failure. He assumed that occause his articles were quoted by the Northern press, there was a consuming curiosity up this way to behold him flap his ears and exercise his hoofs. He goes back home a madder but wiser man. We presume, however, he will continue to edit his paper in the same as a chivalrous Southerner and greatly to the delight of Republican campaign

The Democratic campaign in New York is opening up. General William Preston, of Kentucky, is quoted as saying: "I should be sorry to see General Grant accept a a third term. The tendency would be to a monarchy for life, or what would amount to the same thing, to re-elec-tions for life. Grant would not permit it, but the precedent would work great evil. It is really one of the great dangers of our republic."

Ben Butler was a soldier bold, And used to war's alarms; But a cannon ball shot off his hair, And swept away his charms.

Another Republican candidate for United States Senator in Pennsylvania, to succeed Mr. Wallace, has entered the race in the person of Henry Oliver, of Allegheny county. He is backed by the iron and steel manufacturing interests, and it is whispered that he was brought out by Senator Cameron.

Looking over the political field in Massachusetts, the Springfield Repub-lican concludes that as compared with last year's vote Butler will lose in the country, but will gain in the cities. It is revolutionary in its composition and mode of trea ment and succeeds in curing every external affection. At every stage it is ably assisted by CUTICURA SOAP, which is a part of itself medicinally and at the same time the most delightfully fragrant and refreshing Tollet, Bath, and Nursery Soap in existence.

SALT RHEUM.

Life a burden from the sufferings caused by this terrible disease.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER—Gentlemen: Please accept my most grateful thanks for the great, very great, comfort I have received from the 1se of your CUTICURA.

For the past eight or nine years I have been troubled with that dreadful disease, Salt Rheum,
For months I would be helpless,—my very life a burden to me. life a burden to me.

I have used everything in the shape of medicine, both external and internal, but redicine, both external and internal, but with no effect.

My hands were in a terrible condition, the backs of them being all raw, and I thought I would try CUTICURA.

I tried it, and lo! it was as if a miracle had been performed, for I will take my oath that in three applications my hands were as smooth as a new-born babe's.

I presume there are hundreds, if not thousands, who know of my case, among whom there may be some one similarly afflicted, and if so I would earnestly advise him to give CUTICURA a trial.

Yours, very thankfully,

A.D.BAKER, Ticket Agent C. S. R. R. DETROIT JUNCTION, DETROIT, MICH., January, 30, 1879.

You may put this in the paper and welceme, and may it do some other poor sufferer the same good it has done me! I am well known here, having lived here almost fifteen years and kept boarders for a living, and sometimes my heart was sore, thinking I would have to give up altogether with my sore hands, and having a small family to take care of; but oh! thank God, my hands are well, so I again return thanks.

Yours respectfully,

ELIZABETH BUCKLEY.
